PREPARING FOR FALL ELECTIONS

Poll Books and Other Paraphernalia Sent Out to Registrars.

With the November elections but one week off, the situation is absolutely useless so far as Richmond city is concerned, and interest appears in the State only in spots.

All the poll books and other paraphernalia necessary for the conduct of the elections have been distributed by the Secretary of the Commonwealth, and little preliminary work remains to be done. An exceptionally light vote is looked for here and in other sections, except in the Southwest and a few localities where the citizens are apparently aroused by fights for local offices.

One does not hear the election discussed to any extent around the Capitol or other public places, and it is indeed a most remarkable situation. Still all indications point to about the usual party division in the Legislature, with most of the county officers Democratic. There is only one close fight for the Legislature in this particular section of the State, and that is in the district composed of the counties of Fluvanna and Goochland. Mr. P. A. Smith, Democrat, and Mr. John C. L. Thompson, are the candidates, and on the eve of battle both are claiming the election.
